

Mrs. Grisolono's Kindergarten Newsletter

Week of November 14 thru November 18

Math- Math time was used up this week with revisiting the pan balance to find items in our classroom that equaled the same weight. We also were introduced to the beginning of a game that will have us counting and created trains using addition and subtraction.

Language- Language time was used up this week with working hearing many different versions of The Little Red Hen. We had fun comparing the characters and the sequence the animals were introduced in several of the stories. We also had a chance to hear Armadilly Chili and Cook a Doodle Doo. These two stories had the same story line as The Little Red Hen. We had a great time. Tonight there is a printed story of The Little Red Hen and a sequencing of the characters that the students did during class. Please reread the story over the weekend with your child moving a game piece on the character as you read the story.

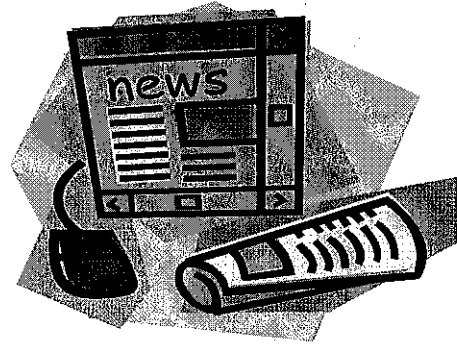

Books Read in the Classroom- This Is the Turkey, Thank you, Thanksgiving, Huggly's Thanksgiving, and Bear Feels Scared

Social Studies- During Social Studies this week we worked on being helpful. We read a story called I Am Helping. The students talked about the ways that they can help around the house and at school. Responsibility

Reminders- Please remember that we only have school Monday and Tuesday of this coming week. There is no school on Wednesday, Nov. 23rd. We will be coming back to learn on Monday, Nov. 28th. There will be no newsletter next week because of only have school for the two days. I wish everyone a Happy Thanksgiving and enjoy the break with your family and friends!
